

Article Summary

Continuing to Cause Problems? Limitation in Professional Negligence Cases

Conor Ewing

This article discusses three recent cases involving limitation in the professional negligence context: Sciortino v Beaumont; Page v Kidd & Spoor Harper Solicitors; and Cameron Taylor Consulting Limited v BDW Trading Limited. It considers the scope of a professional's continuing duty to review or correct previous acts of negligence and the extent to which claimants can rely on such a duty to extend limitation periods.